VOL. VIII. WEYMOUTH, MASS., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1874. NO. 32.

Out of the Window.
Out of the window she leaned and laughed,
A girl's long, idle, and foolish, and
Foolish and idle, it dropped like a ball
Into the crowd, into, into street.
Up he glanced at the laughing face,
Who had caught the laugh as it flittered
And fell.
And eye to eye for a moment there
They held each other as if by a spell.

MARK SHIPLEY'S ATONEMENT.
"Hallo, Shipley! good evening, old fellow!" was the cry to the man who followed him. "You know you promised long ago to take a look in at Masson's, and we won't let you off, 'so put on your top boots, and come along with us." Mark shook his head: "You must excuse me. It was, as you say, long ago when I made that promise, and my opinions have changed somewhat; moreover, Masson's was not then the regular gambling-house it is now. Be generous and give me back my money, boys. I don't want it, and I never entered such a place."

SCIENCE IN THE KITCHEN.
The dough was almost frozen. Monsieur look it and laid it on the table, first drying the hands with a towel. He rolled and dumbed it as before, repeating the operation a dozen or more times, then he rolled it out in a long strip, some sections on the bias from the ends, and putting them in a long tin bake pan brushed them over with yolk of egg and water.

Farm, Garden and Household

Cholera.

For Cholera.—Half a teaspoonful of pulverized alum in a little molasses. It is a simple remedy, one almost always on hand, and one dose seldom fails to give relief. If it should, repeat it after an hour.

A SMALL-POX REMEDY.—The following is said to be a certain cure for small-pox. One man speaking of it, says: "It is as unfailing as fate, and comes in every instance. It is taken when taken by a well person. It will also cure scarlet fever. Here is the recipe as I have used it, and cured my children of the scarlet fever; here it is as I have used it, and cured a man who learned physicians said the patient must die. It cured: Sulphate of zinc, one grain; fox-glove (digitalis), one grain; half a teaspoonful of water; mix with two tablespoonfuls of water. When thoroughly mixed, add four ounces of water. Take a spoonful every hour. Either disease will disappear in two or three days for a child, and smaller doses, according to age. If counties would compel their physicians to use this, there would be no need of pest-houses, you see. It is a simple and expensive, too this for that terrible disease.

TREATMENT OF HEADACHE.—Dr. L. Branton writes: "The administration of a brisk purgative, or a small dose of opium salt, twice a day, is a most effective remedy for headache, when combined with constipation, but if the bowels be regular, the morbid processes on which it depends seem to be checked, and the head relieved even more effectively by nitro-hydrochloric acid or by alkalies, given before meals. If the headache be immediately above the eye-brow, the same is best; if below, the alkalies appear to me to be more effective. At the same time that the headache is removed, the feeling of drowsiness and mental torpor, which usually leads the patients to complain that they rise up more tired than they lie down, generally disappears.

Leached Ashes.—We have used this fertilizer largely, but mostly on tillage and when sowing down to grass. They are of incalculable value to the farmer, and not a bushel should be allowed to go out of the State. Use from 150 to 300 bushels to the acre, according to the nature of the soil, and the kind of grass-seed—whether on low or upland—will exceed that obtained in any other way, and every dollar invested will come back in grain and stock. It is a most beneficial fertilizer, and it is not too much to say that it produces only 500 pounds of hay, plow rather than top-dress; if it produce one ton of hay to the acre, apply 200 bushels, and in two years you will cut two tons of hay under ordinary circumstances. Whether it will pay or not, will depend somewhat on the price of the ashes, the distance to haul them, and the cost of freight of equal value being obtained cheaper.—Maine Farmer.

Wheat for Grinding.—The Iowa Millers' Association, at its recent meeting, adopted the following rates of exchange: No. 1 prime wheat, weighing 60 lbs. per bushel, allow 33 lbs. of flour per bushel. No. 2 prime wheat, weighing 59 lbs. per bushel, allow 33 lbs. of flour per bushel. No. 3 prime wheat, weighing 58 lbs. per bushel, allow 33 lbs. of flour per bushel. No. 4 prime wheat, weighing 57 lbs. per bushel, allow 33 lbs. of flour per bushel. No. 5 prime wheat, weighing 56 lbs. per bushel, allow 33 lbs. of flour per bushel. Keeping Winter Apples.—A member of the Michigan Pomological Society stated, at a late Address meeting, that he was very successful in keeping winter apples, and had secured sound, fresh fruit in May by the following treatment: He picks the fruit in October, and places it in heaps in the orchard and covers them with hay. These heaps remain untouched till December, the light covering of straw and earth and the few inches of hay preventing any injury to the apples, even during sharp frosts. They are then assorted and packed in May by the following method: They are placed in a cellar, which is kept at a temperature of about thirty-two degrees, and if it should happen to be a few degrees lower for a short time, they are covered with straw or hay. The temperature of the barrels will prevent any injury. They come out sound in the spring.

Keep the Hogs Out of the Water.—A correspondent of the Colonial Farmer, whom the editor delects to be a practical breeder, writes: "That to handle hogs to the best advantage, pasture is needed of green grass—clover, blue grass and timothy—and it is best if there is no running water or stock pond in the lot. Hogs do better where there is no brook or stock pond to wallow in. In place thereof, have a trough made, and nail strips across, eight inches apart, to keep the hogs from lying down in the water, and let these troughs be placed on floors, to keep them from digging up wallowing holes. If feces be given, it should be soaked in well water, and fed before feeding—no longer—and fed to them as drink.

How it was Done.—At one of the gates of Paris the collectors of the octroi were not satisfied in regard to the amount of tax taken every day. There was, generally, not much in the cart, but it was always drawn by two enormous strong horses with enormously heavy harness. So an officer in disguise, was appointed to follow the man. He obtained no precise information, save that something unusual was done when the horses were stabled that night at last two men and two hours time. Next day they examined the horses and ripped open the harness. In the heavy harness were found 1,500 cigars.

A Provincial Man.

This title now justly belongs to a physician who has added to the list of medical geniuses which appear to include all that is most valuable in the old pharmacopoeia, and not to include any of the drawbacks with which the so-called specifics of the faculty are charged. After a patient of Dr. Joseph Walker, of California, whose Virginia Dittora have achieved, in the short space of two years, a degree of popularity never before attained by any advertised preparation in this country, we have too much confidence in the shrewdness of the American people to suppose that this sudden and unexpected success is due to a mere delusion. Indeed, we have reason to believe that it is founded on innumerable and well-authenticated cases of almost all the bodily affections to which it is applied. Not the least among the merits of the famous tonic and restorative is its entire freedom from alcohol, as well as from all mineral drugs. It is composed entirely of rare vegetable extracts, — Corn.

A BATTLE WITH BURGLARS.

At Bay Ridge, Long Island, two burglars were shot dead under peculiar circumstances. Judge Van Brunt's house is about forty feet from the shore, on Bay Ridge. The house is known as the country seat of the Judge, but he has not occupied it for two or three seasons. John Holmes Van Brunt was young on a farm adjoining what is now Bay Ridge. In the winter the Judge's dwelling is unoccupied. A servant, William Scott, has a room over the stable, about a limited yards from the house, and watches over the house and grounds. The house is elegantly furnished, and contains other property of great value. An electric burglar alarm was arranged to connect all the windows and doors of the Judge's residence with the burglar's.

THE DIPHTHERIA.

A Massachusetts Physician's Treatment. Diphtheria is a disease very prevalent here, says Dr. David Price, of Lowell, Mass., in many towns in Franklin county, Mass., and it is proving very fatal. It is a most dangerous disease, and greatly dreaded. And why should it not be, when so often fatal? Yet, after all, when taken early by a skillful physician, it need not be much feared. In fact, physicians are not often called upon to establish the system. Too late, is the verdict most often. When a case of diphtheria is known to exist a physician should at once be called. Do not wait and try domestic remedies. Physicians can manage the disease easily if called in season. Not one in two hundred die of the disease. At least this my experience. I have treated the disease for thirty years and seldom lose a case if called in season.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

President MacMahon, of France, is to form a new ministry in harmony with his views. While the Rev. W. H. Kennelmer was preaching in Knox church at Hamilton, Ont., burglars entered his residence and stole several hundred dollars worth of silver and plated ware. The Rev. Mr. Kennelmer, who is a member of the church, was sitting in his study, reading, when the burglars entered. He was startled and fled, but the burglars did not molest him. The Rev. THE PIANO-HARP.

A recent case in Georgia has excited much attention. A young farmer from the interior went to Savannah on business in January of this year. He intended to remain for a few days only; but after he had been about until nearly March, his family, composed of himself and wife and four children, began to fancy that some disaster had befallen him. They were very anxious to hear from him, and he was searched, and the police had spent much time in fruitless endeavor, the young man was given up as lost. In October he suddenly reappeared, an old, haggard, ragged, dirty, and almost famished. History was a strange one. He had, during his stay in Savannah, entered a drinking saloon into one existing. While there he had been carried and conveyed to a vessel, which brought him to a Spanish camp of instruction, on the coast of Cuba. When freed, he found himself imprisoned in a stockade, with many other men, who seemed to have been gathered up in various cities of the United States, and he was informed that he was a rebel and was expected to fight against the insurgents. Our Georgian at once saw the situation, and when he was actually pressed into active service took an opportunity to slip away, and run the risk of safe arrival at the coast. He succeeded, and after almost incredible adventures, managed to board an American steamer, which he reached Savannah, and he was brought home by his family.
